Taiwan offer internet

Taiwan becomes the first country to offer free internet!

This information is a dream for many of us. And for good reason, the island of Taiwan offers free WiFi not only to tourists but also to citizens.

To do so, the government has established no less than 4,400 internet terminals across the country.

The size of the island (36,000 km²) is a very important figure.

It is difficult to imagine such an offer in a country the size of Russia.

In any case, offering the Internet for free is a great way to get people talking about Taiwan and could well give ideas to other countries.
